PRESS RELEASE

EOS CONSULTING ALONGSIDE NEXTEENERGY CAPITAL ACQUISITION OF AN 8 PHOTOVOLTAIC PLANTS PORTFOLIO WITH A CAPACITY OF 34.5 MW

Next Energy Solar Fund Ltd. – a primary investment fund in the solar industry - announced it has signed a Sharing Purchase Agreement with Platina Energy Partners for the acquisition of photovoltaic portfolio "Kairos", for a total capacity of 34.5 MW. The portfolio consists of 8 ground-based plants located in the Campania and Puglia Regions, in operation since 2011. With this acquisition, NextEnergy invests in 58 photovoltaic plants across Europe, for a power of 539 MW and an investment value of over 700 M€.

EOS assisted NextEnergy in the evaluation of the asset technical characteristics, performing the Technical Due Diligence activities both through document controls and by site inspections and test campaigns. The aim of analysis was to provide an overall estimate of the investment feasibility by verifying the compliance of works with the authorization papers and the requirements for maintaining incentives, also in virtue of recent regulatory references. The technical monitoring, moreover, was conducted in order to determine the current state of the plants and components, identifying any points of attention and tracing one probabilistic scenario producibility. Finally, technical and economic assumptions of operating and management costs were identified for the correct structuring of the Base Case.
